Two modern day cowboys

Meet Bob & Fred

a.k.a.
Homer
J.R.

Bob "Homer the cowboy" Thompson (left) started his career in the Miller's Outpost art department but has spent the last five years joking around in the company's television ads. His "pardner," fellow cowboy Fred "J.R." Mulvey (right) also began working for the company by just "hanging around." The two have helped to create the cowboy characters during the years. On the Cover: Thompson and Mulvey doesn't wear their recognizable western garb daily at work but they can't change the look that has become synonymous with their commercials.

Story by Suzanne Sproul

Fred Mulvey and Bob Thompson never thought the Miller's Outpost cowboys idea would fly; they agreed to portray the twosome on television commercials because no one else wanted the job.

Now, five years later, the two West Valley residents are still exchanging one liners — and say they're having the time of their lives.

"We didn't really think the Western theme would work, but customers love the blend of humor and advertising," Mulvey said at the company's Rancho Cucamonga marketing division office.

Mulvey, alias J.R. the cowboy, started his career working in music and theater, particularly at Citrus College in Azusa. "I just started hanging around Miller's and then I got with Bob, who had a few ideas which he stole."

"I killed the owners so they won't care," Thompson shot back.

Thompson, who portrays J.R.'s sidekick, Homer, worked with the company as an artist, working on signs and with the advertising department.

Although Dave and Lou Miller started the Miller's stores in Los Angeles in 1947, the brothers moved to the Pomona Valley during the 1950s. They opened stores in Pomona and Ontario. Later the company's corporate offices were moved to Ontario.

In 1972, however, Dave Miller branched off and started Miller's Outpost stores. Lou Miller opened his own stores.

Miller's Outpost now operates 250 stores in California, Texas, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico. Locally, Miller's has stores in Upland, Rancho Cucamonga, Chino, Montclair and two in Pomona.

"Miller's started off selling a lot of military surplus, scouting equipment and work clothes. The Miller's Outpost concept was developed in 1972 when the company decided to change its emphasis to promoting clothes for the more casual lifestyle," said Terry Breese, marketing services vice president.

In the spring of 1979, the company was searching for a new advertising campaign. Breese, Mulvey, Thompson and other corporate representatives sat around a table trying to come up with the right gimmick. The cowboy theme was suggested and they decided to give it a try.

"Originally, the cowboys were supposed to be miners who were customers who came into the store thinking it only sold jeans but found out Miller's is much more than jeans," Thompson said.

But the cowboys evolved into a frolicsome pair who promote Miller's with slapstick comedy. "People have really responded to the cowboys, surprisingly. I think they enjoy the humor-product, sell, payoff-at-the-end type of commercial," Mulvey said.

If customers were to look at all the company's commercials during the last five years, they would see that the cowboys' look has changed a lot, he said.

"The look started off as miners but it has evolved during the years," he said.

"We were much younger then so we looked like minors," Thompson quipped.

Mulvey and Thompson picked through the Western costumes at Burbank Studios to put together the cowboys' look. "In fact, after we did the first commercial we sent the costumes back because we didn't think it would work. When the idea worked we had to go back and look for the costumes.

"We traded a new pair of chaps for the ones I wore with the costumer for the Little House on the Prairie show. You can't get chaps like the ones I wore," Thompson said with a smile.

Thompson said once the look was established the next step was to work on the cowboys' personalities. "We did it by trial and error. The one cowboy is dumb and the other is intelligent and street-wise."

"Oh sure, that's you, right?" Mulvey said with a laugh.

The pair said they enjoy the control they have in developing the situations the cowboys find themselves in during each commercial.

The only time the cowboys have unbuckled their chaps to don other outfits was when Mulvey and Thompson posed as the Miller's Outpost's version of the "Ghostbusters."

"I love the commercials where we're the 'Ghostbusters.' It was a hot movie and we were the first to use the idea in our commercials," Thompson said.

Their portrayal of the Miller's cowboys has brought Mulvey and Thompson some celebrity status. The two make personal appearances for promotion and charities throughout the country.

"We have a responsibility to represent this store, especially since so many people recognize us. It could be annoying, but I find it very flattering," Mulvey said.

Mulvey and Thompson said they particularly enjoy dressing up as the cowboys when they visit hospitals. In December the two will embark on an extensive three-week tour of children's hospitals throughout the Southwest.

The cowboys also have worked with the Muscular Dystrophy and March of Dimes associations.

"I can't see an end to the cowboys. It's still fun, especially since we're involved in the creative end of the commercials," Thompson said.

Currently, the two are finishing the filming 20 to 25 commercials to be released at Christmas. Viewers can expect to see the cowboys in Alaska, housed in an igloo and fishing through the ice when a mysterious foreign submarine appears.

"We don't want to say it's a Russian sub, but it is a submarine from the country that didn't compete in the Olympics," Thompson said.

Although Mulvey and Thompson have teamed up successfully with their commercials, they don't think they'll pursue a career as a comedy team on stage. "We've thought about it, but I don't think we're equipped to be a comedy team. We don't want to overdo what we've got. We don't want to spoil the magic," Mulvey said. □

Upland woman's horse a real winner

By Suzanne Sproul

Billie Redenbaugh of Upland knew her horse had the look of a champion from the start. All it would take would be hours of work.

Mrs. Redenbaugh was right. After three years of extensive training and exercise, her half-Arabian horse, Cadiz, has moved until next month.

Cadiz had somewhat of a head start toward the honor. The horse's parents are Kesha, a champion herself, and Elimar, an Arabian stallion imported from Poland.

A horse must be entered in the halter class at the nationals before it is born.

Mrs. Redenbaugh owns Kesha her other horses, she said she preferred having a professional handle the nationals.

She bought Kesha eight years ago simply to have a pleasure horse. Redenbaugh trained at the San Dimas Equestrian Center and starting showing her horse as an amateur at the Pomona fairgrounds.

After some shows, though, the years," she said. "I'm just so excited because to place third among the top breeders in the world is a top honor. Some of the experienced breeders have even called to congratulate me. A small-time breeder can do it, too."

"I thought he had a good chance but I can't tell you how thrilled I am to have a horse judged among the best in the world and to be considered along with the other top breeders in the world."

Rori Redenbaugh
Owner of Cadiz

into the ranks of the world's top horses.

Cadiz won third place this week in the halter class at the United States Nationals in Kentucky. He was selected among the top 10 horses in the world and will share the $5,000 prize with the other horses.

"I thought he had a good chance but I can't tell you how thrilled I am to have a horse judged among the best in the world and to be considered along with the other top breeders in the world," Mrs. Redenbaugh said.

Cadiz will remain in Kentucky and the stallion is from the Nekeel Arabian Ranch in Rancho California.

"The U.S. Nationals Show is the equivalent to the horse world's Olympics," she said. "I think the halter class is the most difficult because the horse is judged on how it looks and carries itself. That's something that is either there or isn't when they're born."

Three world-class judges assessed Cadiz on his bone structure, how he moved and how he was shown by trainer Ray Fisher. Although Mrs. Redenbaugh trained Cadiz and she started pursuing a horse breeding program on her own. The program's first success was Cadiz.

"I started training Cadiz right from the start about how to stand and carry his head," she said. "It takes a lot of work because horses have to be kept in condition just like champion athletes."

Her dream is to one day raise Arabian horses at her Upland ranch. She already has Kesha, Cadiz, two of Cadiz's brothers and four pure-breed Arabians.

"I've always loved horses. It's been my entertainment during

Upland teacher has her eye on the heavens

By Stacy Louis

"For me, going into outer space is something very spiritual. To break the bonds of this earth and go into divine territory really excites me."

These are the words of Karen Smith, an English teacher at Upland who is one of the many teachers interested in a trip aboard the space shuttle.

Two teachers from every state will be selected by NASA to compete for a trip on the spacecraft.

Next May NASA administrator James Beggs will select eight teachers to go through the six-month training period.

An application will be available in early November but they will not be easy to obtain.

One restriction is age — applicants must be under 45. They must also have a resting pulse under 100, and blood pressure under 168/100.

Smith said she fulfills those requirements.

If chosen, she will undergo six months of vigorous physical training and some classroom instruction. She will be tested for claustrophobia and altitude sickness.

She will also be required to take one year's leave of absence from her teaching position and tour the United States making public appearances.

From the shuttle, she will be able to teach class, via monitor, and record her impressions.

Miss Smith's family brought her to California from Utah in 1967. After graduating from Upland High School, she attended Brigham Young University, the University of Hawaii and Cal Poly Pomona.

She intended to major in public relations but fell in love with teaching and graduated with a degree in education.

Smith says she loves her work. She feels educating is valuable.

Her feelings are the same about this trip.

"I really feel deep inside that this is an experience that I need to go for all the way. A lot of people, even teachers, have a hard time expressing their emotions, but I feel that I have a talent for communicating with people and sharing my feelings," Smith said.

"I am not looking for publicity or fame, I am looking to have an experience that can touch and change the lives of the people around me."

Smith is supported by her family, students and Glen Fisher, Upland High School's principal.

Her students have shown their support by writing petitions, making buttons that read "Send Miss Smith to the moon," bumper stickers, balloons and business cards.

While interviewing Smith her sister-in-law, Robyn Smith, commented, "Karen is qualified more than most, she represents the average American, she relates well with others and I know she would touch many lives with her experience."

"Why do I want to go on the space shuttle? Well, I've grown up in a science-oriented family and the study of life and the mysteries of the world have always intrigued me. Life is there for the taking and we need to set higher challenges for ourselves to enjoy life and fully take advantages of all opportunities," the Upland teacher said.

"Thoreau said 'That the worst crime in life is to look back and say, If only what if?'"

"I want to live my life to the fullest and to share that love for life with others."

Upland High School teacher Karen Smith finds a positive atmosphere in the classroom translates to positive results in the grade book.

Upland Recreation Department and library will sponsor Halloween 'Scary-A-Fair' event Oct. 31

A "Scary-A-Fair" will be presented on Wednesday, Oct. 31, from 5 to 8 p.m., for children up to 13 years old at Magnolia Recreation Center, 651 W. 15th St., in Upland.

The Halloween happening will be sponsored by Upland Recreation, Upland Library, Upland Foothill Kiwanis Club and the Upland High School Key Club. Admission is $1 per child and includes unlimited play at all games and activities.

Children will also compete for prizes for the funniest, scariest and most creative costumes. Divisions for the costume competition will be ages 0 to 5 years, 6 to 8 years, and 9 to 13 years.

The "Scary-A-Fair" has been designed to provide a safe and fun alternative to trick or treating for children.

Sponsors are also asking participants to bring a canned food or staple item to "Feed the Witch" as a donation to needy families in Upland.

For more information call Upland Recreation Department at 985-0994.

A new evangelist minister leads the flock at Church of Christ

The Church of Christ in Rancho Cucamonga plans to expand its evangelistic efforts with the help of a new minister.

David Ryal, a graduate of the Southern California School of Evangelism, joined the 3-year-old congregation in September and soon will begin a series of discussions on personal evangelism, Wednesday evenings at 7:30 p.m.

Ryal, a program coordinator and instructor, will teach members of the congregation "how to share one's faith with someone else," he said.

"They (church founders) didn't want just one man (doing evangelical work). One man can't do it," he said. "They wanted to teach 20 couples...so they can go out and share with the community."

"Christian Evidences," the historical accuracy of the Bible based on manuscripts and archaeology from the beginning to present day will be discussed in Sunday worship services.

The Rancho Cucamonga Church of Christ congregation is young, according to Ryal, and comprises mostly couples, age 23 to 40 with children still living at home.

Currently housed in the Rancho Cucamonga Business Center, 9581 Business Center Drive, the church may begin construction on property located on Hellman Avenue, between Base Line Road and Church Street, next June.

"We started with about six families from Alta Loma," said Bob Gunn, one of the congregation's founders and elders.

He said the new members were commuting to the La Verne Church of Christ. "We started meeting at Carnelian School on Sunday mornings and in the evening, met in (members') homes until we outgrew that," he said.

The congregation has more than doubled since its inception. "We had 21 members, now there are close to 60. We sometimes have as many as 75 to 80 present (Sunday mornings) and a lot are children," Gunn said.

The congregation purchased the property on Hellman shortly after forming. "We hope to have eight classes, a kitchen, office space and an auditorium which will seat 250," Gunn said.

The Rancho Cucamonga church started with a board of three elders. When two of the elders left the community and Gunn resigned, Ryal was hired to lead the church.

"He does instructional teaching, but doesn't do all the preaching," Gunn said.

A number of men share the pulpit and teaching responsibilities. While women teach children's classes, they are not allowed to conduct services or teach adults.

"We follow the New Testament principles ... women are in charge of the home and God ordained and instructed men (to be responsible for) church (duties)," Ryal said.

Gunn said that according to scripture "men were to be responsible for (religious) instruction and women were not to usurp authority over man. No place in the Bible does it give women that kind of authority (to speak during worship services)."

The divided church/home responsibilities for men and women are more unifying than diversifying, according to Ryal. Church of Christ congregations have not had problems with the women's liberation or women's equal opportunity movements.

While not allowed to share leadership responsibilities in worship service, Church of Christ women can participate in a "Ladies Bible Class" on Tuesday mornings at 10 in the church's current meeting location.

"They have a special fund and are raising money to help pay legal fees for a couple adopting a child," Ryal said.

Men meet at the same time on Tuesday mornings for Bible study.

The church has recently formed a youth group for high school and college-age people, which will begin meeting in November. "We're planning trips to the mountains and the beach," Ryal said. Also planned is a group for junior high and primary grade students, but that probably won't begin until after the first of the year, he said.

Sunday service begins with Bible study at 10 a.m., worship at 10:45 a.m. and evening worship at 5 p.m. Midweek services are held on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. For more information, call 987-4500.

ABOUT TOWN

Animal benefit

A "Hallowe'en Gala" benefit will be held Sunday, Oct. 28, from 1 to 4 p.m. at the West End Shelter for Animals, 1010 E. Mission, Ontario.

The shelter's annual low-cost cat vaccination clinic will be combined with a bake and plant sale. It will be sponsored by shelter volunteers.

Officials emphasize the importance of yearly booster shots for cats, since they are more vulnerable to rabies than dogs. Cat owners attending the clinic may choose between a rabies inoculation for $3 or a $5 combined vaccine that protects cats against the three most common feline diseases, plus rabies.

All shots will be administered indoors by a veterinarian. No dogs will be vaccinated at this clinic.

Volunteers will offer a variety of take-home dessert treats - including candy. The plant sale features a collection of decorative foliage along with cacti and succulents.

All proceeds from the gala will be used to support the care and feeding of animals housed at the shelter until new homes can be found for them. For more information, call 947-3517.

Christmas boutique

A "Christmas Fantasy Boutique" has been slated for Sunday, Nov. 4 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at St. Lucy's Priory High School.

The annual event will feature a children's shop, with items for youngsters, gourmet and plant shops, and a linen closet for needlework, quilts, clothing, dolls and Christmas decorations.

The Citrus Singers, with Ben Bollinger, will entertain. Various choirs are scheduled.

Crafts class teaches the art of covering photo albums

Learn the technique of covering photo albums to give as gifts or keep at home to hold treasured memories in an Upland Recreation Department crafts class on Monday, Oct. 29, from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

The class will be held at Magnolia Recreation Center, 651 W. 15th St. in Upland. Fee is $8 and it does not include supplies.

Registration is being taken at the recreation office, 433 N. Second Ave., Upland. For more information, call 985-0994.

Youngsters get to demonstrate traffic safety

By Suzanne Sproul

Bands, floats and marching units helped set the mood Saturday during the morning parade but the message was a serious one - practicing traffic safety can prevent senseless accidents.

The West End Toxic Abuse

Bernardino County Board of Supervisors were some of the dignitaries who participated.

Parade units included the Upland High School band, the Upland Fire Department, the Ontario Mounted Posse, Girl Scouts and Ontario American Legion representatives.

The parade disbanded in downtown Upland near the kiosk. Display booths from the Ontario Community Hospital, the President's Commission on Women, WETAS and others were set up in the area.

Square dancing, Dixieland and country-western music entertainers were scheduled to perform throughout the day at the kiosk.

Youngsters ages 4 to 7 even got in a driving lesson from the Upland Police Department. Officers judged the children on their performance in a trike-a-thon.

Eric Vilchis

Davy Valentine, 5, was one of the participants in the Traffic Safety Awareness Parade held Saturday.

Service (WETAS) sponsored the local observance of California Traffic Safety Week which ended Saturday with a 31-unit parade in Upland.

The day-long celebration featured the parade, musical entertainment, booths and a children's trike-a-thon.

The grand marshal of the parade was Chuck Street, known to Southern Californians as the commander of "yellow thunder" the helicopter used in the KIIIS-FM traffic watch.

Street arrived in his helicopter to the delight of the children who attended the parade.

Free Halloween Carnival planned for parents, children at school

A free Halloween Carnival for parents and children is being offered by California Learning Centers as a safe alternative to the horrors of trick-or-treating.

The carnival is offered to children who are not enrolled at the school, as well as to students and will be held at 8736 Baker in Rancho Cucamonga from 6:30 to 10 p.m.

More than 30 booths, food, prizes, a haunted house, a raffle and side shows will be included. There will be face-painting, a scarecrow scatter, a gold fish toss, ghostly golf, pick-a-pocket games and more.

Parents and children should dress in costume.

For more information, call 985-3215 or 981-7474.

Cry for an orphan wine — Petite Sirah

By Dan Berger
Copley News Service

Many grape varieties grown in the United States are imposters. It is suspected, for instance, that what we call Pinot Blanc is actually Melon, that certain varieties of Gamay Beaujolais are in fact clones of Pinot Noir and that Petite Sirah is little more than Duriff.

Duriff is thought to be a coarse blending grape with little distinction. It has a tough skin and lots of tannin, and a low intensity of fruit. It yields a wonderful deep-violet color, and it is used largely to give deep red color to generic red wines in California.

In fact, Petite Sirah grapes can produce a wine so dark in color — nearly black in some cases — that wine lovers laughingly refer to Petite Sirah wines as ink.

(Some years ago, Bob Brown, then an editor with the journal The Wine Spectator, put various Petite Sirah wines in a fountain pen and wrote with them. Not one gave a very good account of itself as a scribing liquid — but all were readable.)

Petite Sirah is thought to have first been discovered growing in the Middle East and small plantings of it may be found in France's Rhone Valley. Immediately before coming to the United States about 100 years ago, the variety was found in great quantities near Calabria in southern Italy.

Whatever it is, however, it is most certainly not the same Syrah variety that is the heart of the great Hermitage wines of the Rhone. Those wines are full of intense flavors when youthful and are even more glorious with years of bottle age.

During the last few years, Petite Sirah has fallen out of favor with wine lovers because it doesn't age well. The coarse, rough, palate-sanding tannins remained long after the fruit had died.

So numerous wineries have stopped making Petite Sirah, and others have cut back on the wine. The result is that Petite Sirah is now an "orphan wine" — one that has few takers because of diminishing interest.

Yet when it is well made, from good grapes, Petite Sirah can match beautifully with roasted game, peppery stews and other winter fare.

To test the quality of a range of available Petite Sirahs, I staged a tasting recently of 13 wines for myself and two experts on the variety, attorney Bob Foster and wine broker Bob Mills. The wines chosen were not only California Petite Sirahs because I like throwing into tasting "ringers" — wines that fool the judges and keep them honest. Here are the results, with suggested prices in parentheses:

1. 1977 Gemello Petite Sirah ($7) — "If all Petite Sirahs were made this way, they would never have become orphans," said Foster. This older wine, still commercially available, has very round, ripe flavors, loads of fruit (surprising from an older wine), and matched well with food after the blind tasting.

2. 1981 Ridge York Creek ($9) — Stunning flavors in a complex wine that has less tannin than Ridge Petite Sirahs of the past. Its dry finish matched well with food.

3. 1980 Cilurzo ($6) — Green peppercorns and mint are apparent in the aroma, and the smooth finish without a great deal of tannin makes this wine appealing. Cilurzo is a small winery in Temecula that has notable success with this variety.

4. 1981 Cotes du Rhone, Marcel Guigal ($5) — The first of the "ringer" wines, this contains no Petite Sirah, but emulates it with a green-peppery aroma and a fairly rich taste. Even though it is not true to the category we were tasting, we agreed it was worth considering for hearty dishes. It is superb value.

5. Tie between 1979 Stag's

Leap Winery ($9) and 1981 Louis Martini ($5.50) — The Stag's Leap Winery of Carl Doumani makes one of the finest Petite Sirahs every year. This one is not one of Doumani's best, yet it has a big, "dry red wine" sort of aroma, not totally typical of Petite Sirah. Though it is pleasant, it is not as good as the 1980 Stag's Leap ($9). The 1980 is a bigger, richer, fuller wine with long-term potential to improve. The Martini, that winery's first Petite Sirah, is well made without strong varietal aroma. Mills liked the wine, notably its balance and smoothness.

7. 1981 Fetzer ($7) — A fruity, characteristic aroma is pleasing, as is the finish. A problem is in a slightly high level of tannin.

8. Tie between 1981 Wente ($5.50) and 1978 Mirassou Harvest Selection ($7.50) — Both well done in a slightly green style. The Wente has a hint of weediness in the aroma, not unpleasant, and offered rich flavors on the palate. The Mirassou had a smoky aroma and good fruit. Both are a little lacking in fruit.

10. 1982 Great Western Baco Noir (New York, $4) — Another "ringer," this wine is as fine an evocation of Baco as I have tasted. Baco is a hybrid variety grown largely in New York. The natural flavors of Baco are supposed to be herbaceous, and this wine certainly is, with "lots of stuffing" as Foster said.

11. 1981 Cahors, Domaine du Cedre ($5) — Cahors, another ringer, is the black-hued wine of central France, made from the malbec grape, and the youthful aromas and flavors of this wine were appealing, though it lacked a little fruit.

12. Tie between 1975 Val Semina Petite Sirah, Argentina ($8) and 1979 Cahors, Clos de Batuts ($6). The Val Semina was lighter than all others in the group and was pleasant, though clearly older and a touch dull. The Clos de Batuts was musty and coarse, and lacked interest.

As a group, I liked most of the wines — something I could not say after a similar tasting a year ago. Foster said, "As a group, they are not as tannic as they used to be." Mills said he found the balance better than in the past, and, "I'm glad they're keeping the prices down."

Use common sense on Halloween, sheriff says

Halloween is a festive time for children, but cruel tricks — the tampering of treats — can take the fun out of the season.

"Let common sense prevail," said Floyd Tidwell, sheriff of San Bernardino County.

"There is a big difference between fun and vandalism, but to the innocent victim of either, the end result might be traumatic," Tidwell said.

"Don't be pushy or grabby when trick-or-treating, and open and close your visit to each home or business with a greeting and a thank you," he said.

Tidwell said many people on fixed incomes can't afford the money it takes to buy candy needed for the evening. Those people, often elderly, need not be embarrassed. Such people should keep their porch light off. Children and their chaperones will understand, Tidwell said.

The sheriff also offered tips on Halloween safety:

- Wear a costume that fits, is easy to walk unhindered in and has adequate visibility for both seeing and being seen.

- Use reflective tape on your costume so people driving cars can see you.

- Wear everyday shoes, not poorly fitting costume shoes.

- To make cotton costumes flameproof, mix a paste of 7 oz. of borax and one pint of hot water. Add 2½ quarts of hot water and 3 ounces of boric acid. Stir until clear. Dip the costume into the solution, wetting completely. Let it dry. If costume is washed, the treatment must be repeated. Synthetic costumes cannot be treated.

- A face mask has many hidden dangers, so use makeup instead if at all possible. If wearing a mask, trick-or-treaters should take it off when crossing a street.

- Don't use flowing, flammable false-hair wigs that can burst into flame.

- Stay away from jack-o-lantern candles.

- Don't carry real or make-believe weapons, even if one is appropriate for the attire, like a pirate's dagger.

- Be quiet and cautious around dogs.

- Walk on clearly marked paths or driveways, not on lawns or flower beds.

- Ring the doorbell only once, followed at an appropriate interval by a knock; leave if there is no answer.

- The best place to go trick-or-treating is in a familiar neighborhood.

- Travel only on well-lighted streets and during daylight hours.

- Use sidewalks when available, at other times walk on the left side of the road, facing traffic.

- When crossing the street, look both ways and observe all signal lights and signs. Be alert for cars turning.

- Don't enter a street from between parked cars.

- Never enter the home of a stranger.

- collect treats in a light-colored bag appropriate for the size of the child. The bag should have a reflectorized design.

- Don't eat any treat until returning home and having it checked for suspicious articles. Throw away candy not wrapped, or with wrappers partially opened. Wash all fruit before eating and discard all loose popcorn.

- The safest way to go trick-or-treating is with an adult, or a responsible teenager, a brother or sister.

- Know which friends children will accompany on their rounds and know the path they are taking in case of an urgent need to contact them.

Weekend Christmas boutique to benefit Performing Arts of Rancho Cucamonga

A boutique fund-raiser with a Christmas theme will be held on Saturday, Oct. 27 and Sunday, Oct. 28 to benefit the Performing Arts of Rancho Cucamonga.

The boutique will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, and noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday at Lions Park Community Center, 9161 Base Line Road in Rancho Cucamonga.

Proceeds from the boutique will enable PARC to provide a winter program, according to Becky Hardy, a PARC board member. "We'd like to have something soon after the first of the year, maybe in a classical vein, music wise."

Aprons, candles, pictures, quilting, Christmas ornaments and a large selection of wreaths — items PARC members have been preparing for six months — will be available, said Virginia Adkins, event chairman.

"We'll also have homemade candy in gift tins, cans of steamed pudding and sugared figs," she said. PARC's Women's Auxiliary, a branch of the Rancho Cucamonga Woman's Club, is sponsoring the event.

Admission is free and some items will be available on consignment, including African violets and hand-crafted wooden toys, as well as telephone book and wedding album covers.

Sandwiches, hot dogs, doughnuts and soft drinks will also be sold at the boutique.

PARC has no plans for a Christmas program this year. Last year's production with Fontana's Mummies was "very poorly attended," Hardy said.

The organization will form a little theater group after the first of the year and installation of a new PARC board.

"We've had a lot of interest (in the theater group) expressed at the Concert in the Park and from phone calls," Hardy said. "We

SOFT CORNS

Soft corns, or heloma molle, are no different than other corns. However, they are often misdiagnosed by patients as athlete's foot because they sometimes occur in the web of the toes. The difference is that, with athlete's foot, there is itching and scaling, while a corn is just a painful bump of tissue. Sometimes a corn, which is a foreign body to your skin. One of the primary reasons for getting soft corns is wearing shoes that are too tight or too narrow. A bone spur or enlarged bone may not of itself cause a corn unless the shoe is too tight.

Shoes that are too short can cause corns on the tips of the toes.

R.C. adds a little color to fall schedule

By Terri Tirella

Rancho Cucamonga has added a little color to its fall recreation schedule with Image Concepts.

The addition of the new class was suggested by a local resident, said Kevin Evans, recreation supervisor. "We thought it (Image Concepts) was an interesting approach — I don't know if it will go."

Although a new class in Rancho Cucamonga, Image Concepts, conducted by founder Barbara Uttz, has been successful in other recreation departments, including Upland and Chino.

Uttz, an 11-year Upland resident, teaches how to put together a "total look" using color, fashion and make-up.

Uttz teaches adults, teens and pre-teens and sends Image Concept consultants to lecture at seminars and women's business luncheons.

"I've always been interested in color and felt it plays an important part in how a person feels," Uttz said. She worked in interior decorating before forming Image Concepts.

"I thought if color is important in the home, it's as important on the body as well," she said.

She said teaching women how to dress using proper color results in an escalation of their self-esteem. "They come across better."

Uttz has worked with businesses in pulling colors, showing how office workers can better represent themselves and

Putt Hallow

Time is drawing closer to Halloween when ghosts, clowns, dance hall girls, Tarzans, flappers and a host of other costumed oddities hit the streets for parties and trick-or-treating.

While there'll be some creatures wearing outfits made at home, many youngsters and adults will be wearing costumes purchased or rented in Rancho Cucamonga.

A hairy gorilla stands at 9836 Foothill Blvd., advertising the Dance "N" Stuff costume shop owned and operated by Eileen Honney. A slew of face masks greet customers who enter the shop. The faces staring at customers include a cyclops, E.T., Frankenstein, Olive Oyl, Satan and Darth Vader.

This year, for the most part "females want to look pretty and men want to look macho," said Honney.

"Then you have the men who want to dress up as women and women who want to dress up as men. It's not that they're weird. Halloween is supposed to be funny and unusual," she said.

In addition to the masks, Honney also has costume accessories such as vampire fangs, theatrical makeup, devil pitchforks, fake blood, black lipstick, white and pink bunny ears.

She also has a variety of costumes hanging on a clothing rack and her in-house costume catalogue.

Her top four out of 3,000 costumes include her saloon girl, riverboat gambler, Zorro and a flapper. All costumes were custom-made from fire retardant material by Honney or her employees.

Prices for costume rentals range from $7 to $12 for children, toddler to size 12. For children, Honney has costumes without masks, such as bunny suits and ballerinas.

For those children who feel the urge to cover their faces, she rents a mask and monster robe set for $20.

Costume rentals for adults range from $15

During the season when fantasy becomes reality, children and adults can play dress up while trying to find the perfect costume for Halloween. At Dance "N" Stuff in Rancho Cucamonga three-year-old Frank Aten and his sister Donna, 4, (left) model outfits available there. Accessories help complete the outfit, or in some cases, make the outfit. At the Pea Pod dozens of fake noses (right) can begin an inexpensive and unique costume. Or for a bit more money, costumes for sale and for rent can help one to live out his fantasy. Tony Horn of Upland demonstrates the art of swashbuckling in a pirate costume (above right) for rent at the Pea Pod in Rancho Cucamonga.

to $35, with an average price of $25. A refundable security deposit is also required at the time of costume rental.

Her costumes include Indians, court jesters, M & Ms, Wonder Woman, nuns, monks, Tinkerbell, Elvira, Egyptian pharaoh, gorillas, cupid, Pink Panther and football players.

Costumes and masks are also available for purchase.

Halloween shopping hours at Dance "N" Stuff are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Sunday-Saturday, through Nov. 17.

For more information, phone 980-2109.

At Dee Dee's Dance Studio, 9581 Foothill Blvd., a wide assortment of costumes and costume accessories are available for purchase.

Among the most popular costumes this year is a Ghost Buster outfit, according to Eve Kaplan, mother of Dee Dee Friedman who owns the studio. Customers have the option of buying costumes in pieces or as a complete package.

Among other costumes available at Dee Dee's are pumpkins, flowers, jail birds or prison convicts, french maids, Dracula, Elvira, Tarzan and Jane, cannibals, bees, pirates, cowboys and cowgirls and Robin Hood and Lady Marion.

Costume costs range between $32.95 and $63.85 for adults, with most costumes for children priced lower.

Dee Dee's hours are 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., Monday through Friday; 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday; and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday.

For more information, phone 980-3111.

The Chaffey College Theater Arts Department, 5885 Haven Ave., is renting costumes that were used in past theatrical productions.

Among the most popular costumes being rented for Halloween are the Elizabethan, 1776, contemporary outfits, according to Pat

Skinner, costumer for the department.

Ballerinas, hospital attendants, little girls and big game hunter outfits are also popular, along with the circus showgirls, Dracula, monks and nuns.

Fantasy, ethnic, medieval, ancient Greek and Roman costumes are also available.

Costume costs range between $15-$50, with average rental prices falling between $25-30.

The costume shop, located beneath the seam shop at the rear of the college theater, is open from 3 to 8 p.m. Sunday through Saturday through Halloween.

Simple alterations such as hems are also provided.

For more information, phone 987-1745 or 987-1737, ext. 533.

Pea Pod Stationers, 8754 19th St., has been renting and selling costumes in Rancho Cucamonga for the past six years.

Children's costumes are sold and adult's costumes are rented at the store. Popular children's costumes this year are pirates, princesses, harem and devil outfits, according to Jan Marshall, owner.

Costumes for children range from $12 to $25, most of them $25.

Theatrical makeup, hats, masks, beards and other costume accessories are also available at the shop.

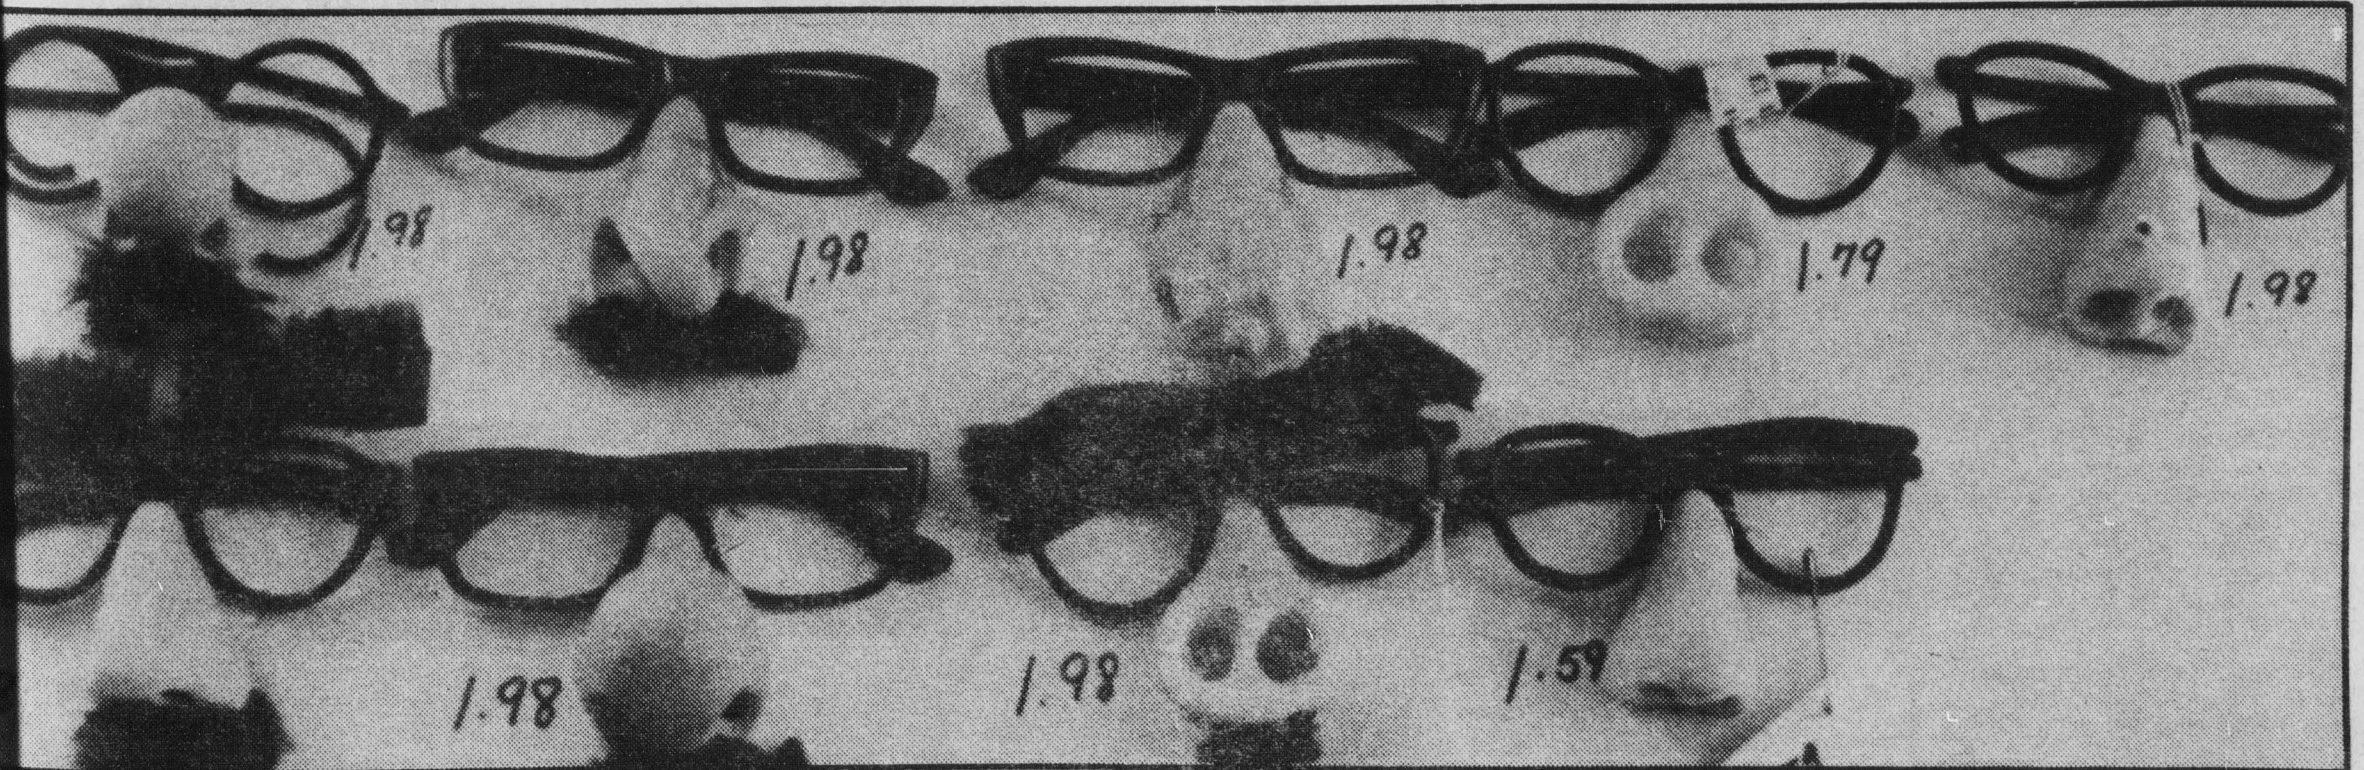

Marshall, who's been in the costume rental business for more than 18 years, has 1,200 costumes available for rental at her store.

Rental prices for adult costumes range from $10 to $50.

Women tend to like the Elvira and French maid costumes, while men tend to like vampire outfits, said Marshall.

Masks including Miss Piggy, pumpkin heads, wolfmen and Mr. T are sold for prices between $7 and $60.

For more information, phone 989-1897. □

recommending the proper type of clothing for work.

Uttz's color classes are limited to 12 students so she can give personal attention to each and suggest colors for each woman.

She discusses color psychology, how to coordinate a wardrobe by color, how to use color as an effective tool and how to make a positive first impression in her Image Concept classes.

"In color psychology, we talk about the feelings of each individual color; black is considered sophisticated but it can be heavy and aging (when worn), red raises the bold pressure and increases the pulse rate but it can be a color difficult to say no to," she said.

Uttz also offers individual classes through her Image Concepts company. "We learn how, using two plus two plus five (individual pieces of clothing) how to create 30 different outfits, all color coordinated."

Since interior decorator Janet Garcia took an Image Concepts course, she said she has found people more responsive. "They take me more seriously," she said.

Before meeting with Uttz, Garcia was wearing black, "the worst color I could put on and I didn't wear the correct clothes... I didn't know how to combine colors, how to use colors or go into depth," she said.

After establishing their colors, it will probably take students about two to five years to weed out their wardrobes, Uttz said.

"If they have something (with the wrong color) they should wear it away from their face until they can weed it out of their wardrobe," she said.

Color added to R.C. recreation's fall schedule

Some people may stay away from colors they like because of inner conflict or reasoning. Uttz did not start wearing bright colors until after studying fashion and color.

"I was a minister's daughter and was used to wearing subdued colors," she said. She discovered several bright colors she had never attempted to wear before. "Some were colors I thought some hussy would wear," she laughed. "Hot pink was only for sirens."

She said discovering your colors and seeing yourself looking good "builds self-esteem. They feel better about themselves and self-worth. They project a positive attitude."

"Low self-esteem is the No. 1 problem for women," Uttz said. "They don't know where they fit anymore; they're unsure, they don't know what to expect ... they don't feel good about themselves."

Uttz has a background in interior design and art and has always been interested in color.

She and her husband David, a pilot, have three children, ages 6, 14 and 18, and have lived in Upland 16 years.

Image Concepts has had classes at Upland recreation for two years.

For more information on the Image Concept classes in Upland, call 985-0994; in Rancho Cucamonga, call 980-3145.

Program offered for children

A pre-gymnastics program for boys and girls, ages 3 1/2 to 5 years, is being offered by Upland Recreation Department on Monday or Thursday, 2:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Kinder Gym is taught by the recreation department staff and is designed to develop coordination in pre-schoolers.

The five-week session will begin Oct. 29 and will cost $15.

Registration is currently being taken at Upland Recreation Department, 433 N. Second Ave., Upland. For more information, call 985-0994.

Girl scouting available for 5-year-olds

Because children are growing up in a more complex environment, the Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council has begun the Daisy Girl Scout program for kindergarten-aged girls.

Although the Daisy Girl Scout program is new, Spanish Trails Council has already been working with younger girls in Pixies, a pilot program. Because of the success of Pixies and other pilot programs across the nation, Girl Scouts USA decided take its daisy program nationwide.

Parents interested in learning more about Daisy Girls Scouts should contact the council office at 623-2518.

Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council is a member agency of United Ways of Los Angeles, Greater West End and Orange County.

have someone who will soon be drawing the theater group together."

Planning is under way for next year's Concert in the Park series, free concerts held on August evenings.

Charter PARC memberships will close at the end of this year, according to Hardy. Family memberships are $60, individual memberships are $40 and business memberships are $100.

For more information about membership, call the club president, Don Hardy, at 980-2100 or send membership fees to PARC, P.O. Box 139, Alta Loma, 91701.

Craft fair taking registrations

Registration is now being taken for spaces in the Ontario Recreation Department's annual Kris Kringle Craft Fair.

The fair will be held Dec. 1 at the civic center, 225 E. B St. The cost for a 6-foot-by-6-foot space is $10. Sellers may offer homemade crafts, gift items and baked goods.

The sale will provide a full day of entertainment including Santa's workshop, a free shop for youngsters to make craft items, refreshments, a visit from Santa and more than 100 selling booths with more than 1,000 gift ideas.

Registration for spaces is being taken at the recreation department office in the city hall complex, 303 E. B St. Office hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Spaces are limited.

Our doctors like to do homework.

In fact they like it so much, they created a housecall medical service designed especially for it. Doctors Home Care. And it brings professional medical care to the homes of people who can't get out of the house to see the doctor.

Like elderly, homebound patients with a continuing illness. For them, their home becomes the doctor's office. Or patients with a temporary illness, who find it difficult to see the doctor. Doctors Home Care provides service for them as long as needed.

Arranging a visit by a Doctors Home Care doctor is as easy as picking up the phone. Our doctor will do a complete history, thorough examination, discuss your condition and prescribe medication as needed. If you need tests, our doctors will perform them right there at your home. And if it can't be done at home, like X-rays for example, special arrangements will be made. Then, further visits to your home will be scheduled.

All Doctors Home Care doctors are experts in internal medicine or family practice. And their years of experience have shown that an ongoing relationship between patient and doctor is essential to the healing process.

That's why when you call Doctors Home Care, our doctor will gladly become your personal physician for all of your present, future and emergency health needs.

If you or someone you know would like more information, call us at the number below.

We realize how important qualified medical care is for those patients who are unable to get to the doctor's office.

That's why we wouldn't be doing homework unless we were sure we could make the grade.

"Last one in the water's a dirty dog!"

As everyone scrambles around, shedding garments, kicking off sandals and depositing coolers and cameras in a heap — all to avoid the stigma of being an unclean canine — chances are most of those cast-off belongings will pick up their fair share of moisture, sand or both.

Clothing, shoes and coolers can be washed off or wiped down to get rid of unwanted moisture or grit, but cameras don't take kindly to that kind of abuse. In fact, getting sand and sea in your camera is just about the surest way I know to turn an electronic marvel into zilch.

Now if you're a camera aficionado who happens to be hooked on scuba diving, chances are you've bought yourself an underwater housing to cover your 35mm camera. For most folks, though, an underwater housing is not only a bulky item to carry on land, but the $200 to $400 price tag will keep most people from rushing to the store to request a look at the latest Ikelite catalog.

But I'm not talking about those photographers who are in that segment of the market. I'm concerned with the teenager or adult who wants to take an auto focus camera to the beach, or to the pool, or skiing, or into a Jacuzzi, a hot tub, or for a quick trip into a steam room. There's just no way it's practical to carry your trusty auto focus into these "camera unfriendly" places without some type of protective cover.

From Chicago, a company called Sima Products Corp. has given us CameraShield, a cover that, for a retail price of just $14.95, will provide a large measure of protection for your camera.

In case either the Sima name or CameraShield sound vaguely familiar, it's because Sima is the company that also supplies a product called FilmShield — a lead-lined film bag used to block out the cumulatively harmful effects of airport inspection X-ray units.

The CameraShield will remind you of those press-to-seal plastic bags often found on supermarket shelves — although as you might well imagine, the company has made some pretty drastic refinements to the product you're using to store leftovers in the refrigerator.

Sima's CameraShield is a clear vinyl pouch sized to accommodate a full-sized autofocus camera, an extra roll of film and the camera's strap. Now when all that is sealed inside and safe, the camera can still be used to capture those

LAST YEAR WE COULD HAVE SAVED 50 MILLION PEOPLE A TRIP TO THE EMERGENCY ROOM.

Back in the olden days (a whole year ago), when you had a minor emergency or illness, you'd rush over to the hospital emergency room.

And wait. And wait.

And waiting with you would be a lot of other sick people. And then, as if you hadn't already done so, you'd pay for the experience. A nice hefty sum.

Well, medicine has finally changed. So has emergency treatment. Today there are the N.M.E. Instant Care Medical Centers. They're fast, high quality, and affordable. And you can take advantage of them right near you.

CONVENIENT EMERGENCY TREATMENT FOR MOST ILLNESSES AND ACCIDENTS.

The N.M.E. Instant Care Medical Centers are a new concept. So you probably haven't heard much about them yet. What they are, is a network of convenient neighborhood centers where you can go for expert treatment of most illnesses, injuries or accidents. (However, for major life threatening situations, you would still go to a hospital emergency room.)

N.M.E. Instant Care Medical Centers are all over the nation. They're open 16 hours a day. From 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. 7 days a week. Every day of the year.

LITTLE WAITING. NO APPOINTMENTS.

At an N.M.E. Instant Care Medical Center, you won't spend your whole day reading magazines in the waiting room. Because there's hardly any waiting at all. We're a walk-in center. No appointments are needed. So you can come in at your convenience, not ours.

When you do you'll be seen immediately by the doctor, who will treat you with care and concern. If you need to be hospitalized, we'll see to it that you are and that you're well taken care of.

HIGH QUALITY MEDICAL CARE AT ABOUT HALF THE COST.

For all this, you'll pay about half of what you would pay at an emergency room. Including medical care, x-rays and other tests. For your convenience, we accept credit cards as well as cash or checks. We will even assist you in filing your insurance forms.

N.M.E. Instant Care Medical Centers. We know how to treat more than an illness. We know how to treat a person.

SPORTS

Sheehy proves sports can be for everybody

By BOB MUIR

Joe Sheehy has found the perfect alibi for not cutting his lawn. He just tells his wife he's playing sports.

But not just one sport. All sports.

"I get out in the middle of these things (sporting events) and say, 'I could be home mowing my lawn. But this is much more fun,'" Sheehy said recently. "I'll play any kind of sport just to get away from my lawn."

He might not have the best looking lawn on his Upland block, but Sheehy doesn't care; a little tall grass isn't going to spoil his fun.

Fun to Sheehy means anything from a gruelling 200-mile motorcycle desert race to a 10-kilometer road race. He'll try any sport once.

Trying to pin him down to a specific sport is like trying to make this year's presidential candidates pin down their stand on key controversial issues. It can't be done.

Sheehy's has played every sport from team sports (football, baseball, basketball, etc...) to more individualized events, like marathon running.

"I think there is so much variety that people can have a ball doing all kinds of stuff. Anything that's new in the area, I try for. My goal is to try something new and challenging all the time," said Sheehy.

As it is now, he lives two lives. During weekdays, Sheehy teaches sixth grade at Cabrillo Elementary School. But once the final bell sounds ending the school day, the rest of the evening and weekends belong to Sheehy's seemingly insatiable thirst for action.

The sporting life to him is like a child's day at Disneyland. There's so much to see and do that it's almost impossible to fit it all in a day, or a lifetime.

"I use sports to have a good time," Sheehy said. "Trying is what's important. It's getting out there and giving it your best shot, win or lose."

But while he may fit the bill as the athlete's athlete, Sheehy sure doesn't look like one. At 6-feet tall, over 200 pounds (he won't disclose his actual weight), the 36-year-old Sheehy sports a well-defined belly. He'll even admit he's not in excellent shape, but that doesn't stop him from doing what he wants.

"I'm just like everyone else. If I can do this, everyone can do this," said Sheehy. "Everyone has potential. I think it's important to fulfill that potential physically and mentally. But I don't want to come off like anyone special."

Sheehy may not want to be treated differently, but his list of accomplishments sets him apart from other athletes. The list of sports in which he's participated in looks more like a program listing Olympic venues than one man's sports activities.

Sheehy likes his weekends free

Although Sheehy has a diversified sporting background, he has lately concentrated his efforts on motorcycle desert racing, running and the ultimate test for an athlete — the triathlon, which combines varying degrees of running, bicycling and swimming into one competition.

"I've always been active, but I wasn't great at any sport," stated Sheehy, whose weekends are always filled with some kind of activity. "I just really love them."

Sheehy spends most of his free time during the week running, swimming and bicycling to stay in shape for the busy weekend, which he rarely takes off.

"I want to go out and do something that really demands something from me because if something's not demanding, it doesn't show how good you are," explained Sheehy.

In order to satisfy his need for challenges, Sheehy takes a few dangerous risks.

"I have been drawn to sports that have a dangerous aspect to them," said Sheehy, who entered his first motorcycle desert race just six months after he learned how to ride a motorcycle.

Most desert races cover such rocky and treacherous terrain that a man would have troubles walking the course, much less ride it on a motorcycle.

"Motorcycle racing is a dangerous sport. Part of the thrill is just being involved. At any minute, your whole existence could be wiped out. On the other hand, you're always on the edge, and that's the kind of adrenalin rush I really enjoy," described Sheehy, who entered his first race when he was 25.

Sheehy began running and bicycling as ways to stay in shape for his racing, but eventually, his interest in the two led to his decision to enter a triathlon, even though, he had never swam for any great distances.

"I thought it (a triathlon) was so gruelling, so tough. You'd have to be an iron man; you'd have to be the toughest. But you really don't have to be. If you don't make it, so what? There's always next year," said Sheehy.

Sheehy's next goal is to compete in the "Iron Man" triathlon, which takes place once a year on the Kona Coast in Hawaii. This triathlon covers a 2½-mile swim, 112-mile bicycle ride and 26.2-mile marathon.

To keep himself motivated, Sheehy follows the same philosophies legendary UCLA basketball coach John Wooden taught.

Sheehy, whose bushy handle bar mustache is as charismatic as his personality, uses the same self-control and discipline he learns from sporting competitions and applies it to his daily life.

"The things that get you through life are determination and self-discipline, the kinds of things that are fostered in sports," said Sheehy, who would also like to mountain climb. "Success is pushing yourself to the the very best you can. If you done the very best you can, you've won."

Teen ad contest promotes self-esteem

By Terri Tirella

Reach Out West End in Rancho Cucamonga is trying to build self-esteem among youth, and, in the process, dissuade them from drug abuse with a "Sell Yourself" advertising contest.

Pam Masters, executive director for Reach Out, said the campaign began Monday with efforts to involve as many seventh and eighth graders in the West Valley as possible.

"Some school districts are working the contest into different areas of their curriculum," Masters said. Other districts don't want students to use class time for preparing contest entries, but any seventh or eighth grader may compete.

To enter, students design advertisements about themselves for television, radio or newspapers. All entries must be submitted by Nov. 9.

"We want students to look at all the positive qualities they have and advertise it," she said. "It gives kids an opportunity to look at their good points."

The contest goes along with Reach Out's contention that if people feel good about themselves, they'll think twice about harming their bodies, Masters said.

School districts participating in the contest are Alta Loma, Central, Cucamonga, Etiwanda, Mountain View, Ontario-Montclair and Upland.

At Upland's Pioneer Junior High School, the "Sell Yourself" contest will culminate a week of drug awareness, according to Roger Schulte, principal.

"We had a drug awareness week last year at the end of the (school) year and it was a success," he said.

The week-long program includes assemblies by the Upland Police Department and recovered teenage alcoholics. A parent information night is also scheduled.

Drug awareness will be interwoven throughout the curriculum in English, history and physical education classes.

"For instance," Schulte said, "when students are doing a writing assignment for English, the topic might deal with how to say no."

Schulte stressed the program is not a result of finding drugs on campus or student drug arrests, "but it's the feeling of the staff that all teenagers will have a time when they have to deal with substance abuse," he said.

"Students are very receptive if information is presented in a manner they can understand and relate to," Schulte said.

Anyone interested in participating in the Reach Out West End "Sell Yourself" contest may call 989-2016 for an entry form and information sheet. □

PHOTO TIPS

wet, sandy moments you'd like to remember.

"Once the camera is sealed inside," claims Sima marketing director, Kathleen Devine, "it is completely protected from the elements. And because CameraShield is made of a tough, but flexible, clear vinyl plastic, photographers can operate the camera's shutter by pressing the button through the pouch."

Of course, you should have your camera loaded before putting it in the bag. When you run out of film, then it's advisable to move to a less hostile environment to change film rolls. Opening the bag on the beach or pool side only creates the possibility of letting in all the elements you were trying so hard to keep out. You see, it doesn't really matter when the sand and water get to your camera, the results are always the same — disastrous.

No need to worry about your camera's sensor unit, though. A crystal clear surface covers the area in front of it so the electronics can make their assessment of lighting conditions as well as the distance from you to your subject and work their magic with the required adjustments.

As for protecting your lens, there are several options — Sima supplies an optically clear disc that fits into the molded lens shield so everything inside the bag is sealed. Of course, in this configuration, you will be photographing through that clear disc, but if you give the disc the same consideration you'd normally give a lens, there should be no difficulty with this picture taking mode. It worked just fine for me.

However, if you're a bit of a purist and don't care to shoot through an "extra" piece of anything, then you can remove the disc. This does leave the front of the lens exposed to the elements and a moment of inattention could result in some unwanted contamination.

$3.5 million Upland Bowl to open in February 1985

Brunswick Recreation Centers, a division of Brunswick Corp., is building a $3.5 million Upland Bowl.

The 40-lane facility will be located at 451 W. Foothill Blvd. and is scheduled to open in February 1985. Ground breaking ceremonies were Oct. 24.

The company began installing the necessary underground wiring in July, and construction on the building is ready to begin, according to Judy Graves, head of the advertising company handling the facility.

The Brunswick Upland Bowl will feature the Brunswick colorvision AS-80 scorers, twin line ball returns, action set masking units and Omni presidential seating.

The center also will have a snack bar, lounge, billiards room, electronic game room, pro shop, supervised children's playroom and league record service.

How to Write a Classified Ad That Works...

Begin the ad with the name of the article or service you are offering. If you have an apartment or room for rent or property for sale, start your ad with the location.

Be Complete. Put yourself in the reader's place. If you were considering buying this item, what would you want to know about it? Give the item's age, condition, size, brand name and any other information needed to describe it accurately and completely.

Include Price. Price is one of the biggest concerns of Classified shoppers. Ads that list prices will get their first attention. Including price also helps you avoid inquiries from callers not in your price range.

Be Available. List your telephone number or address so potential buyers will know how to contact you. If you're not home when an interested prospect calls, chances are he won't call back.

Avoid Abbreviations. A few, easily recognizable abbreviations can help you save space. But don't overdo it! Too many abbreviations will make your ad look like a secret code message. Rather than trying to figure out what you have to say, confused readers will just go on to the next ad.

88 HELP WANTED

THE FOLLOWING RULES APPLY TO CLASS 88, HELP WANTED.
All Help Wanted ads must state nature of work being offered. Example: Saleswork, Secretary, Soliciting, Driver, etc.
Statements of employee compensation are optional; however, when any dollar amount is listed, means of compensation must also be stated such as salary, hourly, commission, etc.
Employers who require a fee for equipment, application, registration or training, must so state in their ad.
Some ads appearing under this classification may require an investment, it is the responsibility of the reader to determine investment requirements.
Ads offering training must run under Class 93, EDUCATION-INSTRUCTIONS.
Violations of these rules should be brought to the attention of The Classified Supervisor.
